

Job description

This role requires a 20-week commitment and offers flexible scheduling to accommodate a variety of schedules. Even if you can only commit to two days per month at Station 41, you can still participate! No prior fire service experience is required; we simply ask that applicants have an interest in learning about the fire service. The internship is ideal for student-athletes, college students, those working another job, and anyone balancing multiple commitments, with the flexibility to create a schedule that works around their existing responsibilities while gaining valuable experience in the fire service.

The program is divided into two pathways: Administration and Firefighting. While interns may have a particular area of interest, all participants are expected to gain an understanding of both pathways to develop a well-rounded perspective of how the fire service operates and the major responsibilities of each person throughout the organization. During the 20-week program, interns will have opportunities to gain hands-on experience, shadow various members of the team, learn about the hiring process, complete projects, and participate in other unique learning opportunities.

As part of the program, interns are also responsible for helping recruit future interns who will participate after them. This provides valuable opportunities to strengthen leadership, public speaking, teamwork, communication, and other skills that can benefit interns in any career field. If you meet our requirements and have an interest in the fire service, we encourage you to apply and take advantage of this opportunity to learn, grow, and gain firsthand experience within a fire district.
